PTS ready to take-off again – Management team takes on company following successful restructuring

The Planetary Transportation Systems (PTS) management team takes on the company as part of a management buyout from the Zeitfracht Group following the successful restructuring.

The Zeitfracht Group invested into PTS in 2019, enabling the company to overcome the insolvency and putting it on track for a successful restructuring. PTS is a new-space company working on lowering the entry barrier for space exploration by enabling new and novel solutions von in-space logistics and infrastructure. The engineers and scientists of PTS are developing services and solutions on-contract for space agencies, the Industry and educational institutions.

With the new shareholders structure, the PTS GmbH is now again fully hold by its active PTS Management team. The team worked closely with Zeitfracht to put the company on a success track.

Robert Boehme, Founder of PTS: "We are very grateful that Zeitfracht put our company on a track for success again. Learning from the experience of Zeitfracht proved to be immensely valuable for us. We are certain that in this new constellation PTS will proof again to be a reliable provider on the market."

Dr. Wolfram Simon-Schroeter, CEO of Zeitfracht: „PTS has an extremely competent and highly motivated management team which, following a stabilisation and restructuring phase, is now looking to assume economic responsibility for the company itself. We welcome when people want to take on more responsibility. This is why the Zeitfracht Group has been open to this idea from the very beginning. PTS will remain closely associated with our company, and I wish the PTS management all the best for the future.“

About Planetary Transportation Systems
